HAKA

As the doors shut behind the last guests, the music (which has been playing quietly in the background) is increased in volume, signifying the start of the session.

Suddenly...silence. Then, our team of traditional Maori warriors storm into the room. The roar of 'the call' made by the lead tribesman gives our team their cue to storm the stage. The team perform the Haka to the delight and surprise of your guests.

Within moments of our team finishing, everyone will be on their feet, as we prepare to take them on a whirlwind journey where they will learn and perform the Haka as one unified team.

Once the traditional words are recanted by everyone, all the physical moves are then learnt. Each action corresponds to a part of the story and, in the learning, there are hands, legs and wiggling fingers to perfect together as a group.

Building towards a powerful final performance, the group will go head-to-head in a bit of healthy tribal competition. Then the battle for tribal supremacy is on as we come together as one tribe for the ultimate Haka finale!

MAKE IT VIRTUAL

This activity can easily be run remotely using a video conferencing package such as Zoom or Microsoft Teams. This allows participants located across the country to take part in a fun and engaging team activity with their colleagues without leaving their homes. Each event is hosted live from start to finish by a team of Maori Masters who will deliver the event from a dedicated studio setting.

In advance of the activity we will provide the organiser with an 'event information' document prior to the activity which they can forward to all those taking part. This document will include a short description of the activity, the confirmed timings, access details for your video call, and the name and contact number for your event manager.
